The Institute for Accounting of the University of Bern invites applications for

Visiting Grants for PhD Students in Managerial Accounting

The Institute for Accounting of the University of Bern aims to bring in visiting PhD students that conduct research on managerial accounting topics in their PhD thesis for the academic year 2025/26.

The aim of the visit is to enable new research collaborations, to foster knowledge exchange, and to explore new or emerging research topics in the field of managerial accounting. The program addresses PhD students from all over the world whose research is in management accounting or a closely related field. It offers PhD students the opportunity to get to know the Institute for Accounting at the University of Bern.

We offer financial support for a self-organized research stay at our institute.

- Who can apply: PhD students from (inter-)national research organizations and universities.
- Duration: The Institute for Accounting offers funding for a research stay of 1-3 months.
- Funding: You will receive a research grant from the Management Accounting Section of the Institute for Accounting of the University of Bern of CHF 2'500 per month to support your cost of living. Additionally, we will reimburse your travel costs to and from Bern.

Please send your application, including motivation letter, curriculum vitae, a summary of the topic of your PhD thesis (not more than one page) and a reference letter of your PhD advisor by March 15, 2025, as a PDF file to controlling.iuc@unibe.ch. For further information and questions, please contact Prof. Markus Arnold and visit our website at www.iuc.unibe.ch.
